

The New Testament Letters

The Apostles Wrote Letters to Instruct Congregations and Leaders

A very ancient copy of New Testament letters

Jude: “I am Jude. I was Jesus’ brother also and grew up with Him in Galilee. I was amazed when He first worked miracles. Like the other people of Nazareth, I found it hard to believe. But I soon saw that he was the Son of God because of what He said and did.”

Paul: “I am the apostle Paul. I was a strict Pharisee and hated believers in Christ. I persecuted them cruelly, until Jesus revealed Himself to me on the road to Damascus. Seeing Him in His glorified form left me blind for a long time. Now I serve Him only.”

To introduce the Lord’s Supper read 1 John 1:7-10. Explain that we confess our sins truthfully to the All Holy One before taking the Lord’s Supper, knowing that He washes away our sins with the powerful, cleansing blood of our Lord Jesus Christ.”

Let believers give testimonies of praise about how their lives have been blessed by following the teaching of the Apostles’ letters.

Memorize together 1 John 2:12-13. Form groups of two or three people, to discuss the truths they have just learned about the New Testament letters, pray, confirm activity plans and encourage one another.

Those who teach children should read study #42 for children.

1. Prepare yourself with prayer and the Word of God.

Prayer: “Lord Jesus, you love your people very much and want them to understand and obey the letters that your Apostles wrote. Let me help them. Amen.”

Five of Jesus’ chosen Apostles wrote letters to believers and their leaders, which are preserved for us in the New Testament of the Bible.

These Apostles were James, Peter, John, Jude and Paul. All of them saw Jesus. They wrote in the first Christian century. Their letters are also called Epistles.

James, a brother of Jesus, became a believer and led the believers in Jerusalem. He wrote the Letter of James to Jewish Christians from the twelve tribes of Israel scattered across the Roman Empire. Find in James 1:22 what he said to do with God’s Word.

Peter became a follower when Jesus told him to leave his fishing business. Although Peter publicly denied Jesus, he repented and, with James, led the believers in Jerusalem. He wrote the First and Second Letters of Peter to Christians dwelling in various parts of the Roman Empire, encouraging them to remain faithful even when persecuted. Find in 1 Peter 5:10 what God promised through Peter to those who suffer for Jesus.

John had been following John the Baptist until Jesus called him. He was affectionate towards Jesus, and encouraged others to show their love to God and to each other. He wrote the First Letter of John for all Christians, and Second and Third John to leaders of congregations. Find in 1 John 1:4 and 5:13 two reasons why he wrote his first letter.

Jude, like James, had been a brother of Jesus and became a leader in Jerusalem. He wrote the Letter of Jude to warn that false teachers were deceiving believers and leading some of them into wicked behaviour. Find in Jude 1:3 why he wrote his letter.

Paul (Saul of Tarsus) was appointed as an Apostle by Jesus through a vision. Jesus sent Him to non-Jewish people in many cities of the Roman Empire. The New Testament preserves Paul's letters to Romans, Corinthians, Galatians, Ephesians, Philippians, Colossians, and Thessalonians, as well as his letters to new leaders including Philemon, Timothy and Titus. Paul may have written the Letter to the Hebrews to encourage Jewish Christians to keep trusting Jesus the Messiah rather than returning to Old Testament animal sacrifices. Find in 1 Corinthians 4:14 why Paul wrote to the Corinthians.

The Apostles wrote in the Greek language, which many read in those days. They wrote other letters that were not included in the New Testament. Believers copied the Apostles' letters and sent them to others (See Col. 4:16).

Find on the map of the Eastern Mediterranean Sea (below) cities to which letters were written.

2. Plan with your co-workers activities for the coming week.

- Make a list of believers and congregations that you cannot visit very often.
- Discuss together what they need to learn from you.
- Pray for each of them.
- Write a letter to them to encourage them, like Paul did. Let all of you sign the letter.

3. Plan with your co-workers the up-coming worship time.

Explain the reasons listed under Part 1 for which the Epistles were written. Explain also that Christians obey the Apostles' commands just as they do the commands of Jesus.

Let the believers recite from memory favourite verses from the Epistles.

Let the children present the drama and questions that they have prepared.

Show a map of the cities to which Paul wrote his Epistles. (See the map at the end of this study.)

Let five adults represent James, Peter, John, Jude and Paul. Introduce yourselves as suggested below, and then explain the facts about yourself that are listed above under Part 1.

James: "I am James, the flesh and blood brother of our Lord Jesus Christ. I was an overseer of the believers in Jerusalem, and had a constant struggle with Jewish believers who wanted to go back to the Old Testament Law, instead of trusting in the unearned grace of our Lord's New Covenant."

Peter: "I am Peter, the fisherman. I soon saw that Jesus fulfilled the prophecies about the promised Messiah. I saw the Holy Spirit come upon the first non-Jewish believers in the city of Cesarea. That was wonderful! However, it raised serious questions among the Jews in Jerusalem."

John: "I am John. I wrote so that all people could know for sure the things that I witnessed. I saw the Holy Spirit descend on Jesus like a dove when He was baptized, and heard the Father's voice thunder from heaven. I saw Jesus after He rose from the dead."
